During the course of the project many problems were encountered. As I was creating the problem the main things I was testing against to make sure the program ran properly was:

1. Do all three pages appear
   a. In the beginning I had problems with too many pages appearing and it became very jumbled. Luckily I was able to review the code and find out what was wrong.

2. Do the checkboxes appear correctly
   a. Sometimes the checkboxes would not appear in the correct position or would not appear at all.
3. Exit buttons on each page.
   a. The exit buttons would not appear constantly and had to continuously be adjusted to format properly.
4. Putting the code in classes with definitions.
   a. One of the main things I struggled with the most was the formatting. The formatting could never work properly all the way through and it was really hard to figure out how to fix the problem.
